

Mr. Anthony Fratto,
Principal

At LMS we understand the need to improve achievement for all of our students and are working hard to help every child improve his or her performance. This won't happen overnight, or, just because we want it to, but, it will happen with hard work.

I am very happy to be principal at Lumberport Middle and work with this fine student body, this outstanding faculty and staff, and this great community.

I invite and encourage every parent to visit LMS sometime this year. Call for an appointment with teachers, our counselor, or administrators. If you're in the building, please drop by our offices and introduce yourself.

Mrs. Lori Scott,
Assistant
Principal

At Lumberport Middle School we strive for excellence in all areas. Excellence means that something is very good or exceptional. Successful basketball player and Coach Pat Riley said, "Excellence is the gradual result of always striving to do better." It does not happen quickly or easily, but takes hard work and perseverance. Excellent effort happens when you work very hard and try to do your best. It does not guarantee that you'll make the highest grade or win every game, but it can help you develop habits that will enable you to excel in school, with friends, and at home. You can't always be the best, but you can always give your best.

I encourage all students to think of an area where you would like to improve and keep working toward excellence each and everyday in all aspects of your life. Aristotle said, "We are what we repeatedly do. Excellence, then, is not an act, but a habit."

I would ask all adults involved in a child's life to encourage those children to strive for excellence in everything they do so that it becomes a habit that will stay with them their entire life.

Core Beliefs

1. All will participate in providing a positive, healthy, safe, and drug free environment.
2. Education is an equally important three-part effort; students, parents, and teachers: All students need to attend regularly and be responsible.
3. All parents need to be involved.
4. All teachers need to maintain personal high standards.
5. All will demonstrate good character, civility, integrity, and sound stewardship.
6. Curriculum should meet the needs of all our students: Student growth and development
7. Provide students opportunities for success.
8. Prepare students for the future focusing on the 21st Century Skills.
9. Instruction methods need to be varied: Students' needs are different
10. Learning is accomplished differently by students.

Mission

The mission of Lumberport Middle School is to encourage intellectual growth, moral excellence, personal responsibility, and the development of twenty-first century learners.

Goals

Goal 1:

Continually improve student achievement in all curricular areas.

Goal 2:

Continually improve student achievement through an increase in involvement of all stakeholders in our learning community.

Goal 3:

To improve student achievement and develop twenty-first century learners, students and faculty will utilize technology throughout the curriculum.
